DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

- I. Claims 1-100, drawn to a heating element and patient warming device comprising such a heating element, classified in class 219, subclass 217.
- II. Claims 101 and 102, drawn to a method for controlling the temperature of a personal warming device, classified in class 219, subclass 494.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process such as controlling the heating element to maintain the surface at a first temperature equal to the selected temperature, not necessarily a higher second temperature as required by the broadest method claim.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 3742

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Additionally, if Invention I is elected for examination, applicant must further elect a single patentably distinct species of Invention I as outlined below:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Species A: Flexible heating element with interwoven conductive strands including strands having a conductive portion formed over a core portion (and patient warming device comprising such a heating element) (claims 1-28, 46-49, 55-72, 78, 79, 88-93, 96 .)

Species B: Flexible heating element with conductive path comprising conductive ink applied to the substrate (claims 52, 53)

Species C: Flexible heating element with conductive path comprising conductive film applied to the substrate (claim 54)

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 29-45, 50, 51, 73-77, 80-87, 94, 95, and 97-100 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

In summary, applicant must elect:

1. Invention I or II; and
2. (if Invention I is elected) Species A, B, or C
